World AIDS Day 2020 message from UNAIDS

- World AIDS Day 2020 will be like no other.
- COVID-19 is threatening the progress that the world has made in health and development over the past 20 years, including the gains made against HIV.
- Like all epidemics, it is widening the inequalities that already exist.
- I am proud that over the past year the HIV movement has mobilized to defend our progress, to protect people living with HIV and other vulnerable groups and to push the coronavirus back.
- It is the strength within communities, inspired by a shared responsibility to each other, that has contributed in great part to our victories over HIV.
- Only global solidarity and shared responsibility will help us beat the coronavirus, and the AIDS epidemic and guarantee the right to health for all.
